Competitive Products Will Restore Jobs!

For years, we have been discussing at length the importance of reviving production of goods in America. Many products continue to bear the names of American corporations, but most of these products are foreign made.

Buy American Made FIRST!
The Job You Save
May Just Be Your Own!

With all of our efforts, it is clear that a growing number of Americans are shopping with the intent of looking at labels and asking for American made products. After considerable research we find that for the price we are paying NOW for items with foreign made labels, we could be purchasing a competitive American made product for the same cost. Our research also indicates that one of the major difficulties in restoring America's industries is that business owners and investors have focused on the huge profits derived from foreign labor. American manufactured goods could sell for about the same price in America's stores, but importers, merchandisers and businesses in America would not be earning the same profits they now receive from imported products.

What is very interesting is that foreign producers are seeing for themselves that America's importers are making a lot more money than the people producing the products in foreign countries. As a result foreign producers have started to raise the cost for foreign produced items to America's importers. Rising prices from foreign products is good for American workers because it will increase the willingness of America's businesses to bring back production of their products which would not only have an American made label but also employ people in the country where their customers live.

As the Buy American Made Campaign continues its efforts, business owners, both foreign and domestic, are seeing that consumers are taking the time to look at labels and are being more selective in how they spend their dollars. Business owners are seeing more foreign made inventory sitting on the shelf while a growing number of people are seeking out American made products, which will hopefully lead to increased domestic production.

We Are Making Progress Every Day!

It is very important that we acknowledge everyone who is helping promote our efforts to restore jobs and job skills in America. Special THANKS to our media supporters from radio, television, newspapers, internet sites, organizations and individuals discussing our efforts and forwarding the Buy American Made Campaign information to their family members and friends.

As our young people return to school, parents must press national leaders and local school boards to restore trade and technology classes and all classes needed to get America's young people ready for the modern workplace long before they graduate. Restoring all levels of education in America's schools is the only way to expand jobs and job skills and long term prosperity for American workers and America's economy.

United For Change in America

Now that more people are speaking up and asking questions, there are more opportunities to expand jobs in America. We continue to focus on no less than 50 of all products sold in America, being made in America again. Quite frankly, we should have never reached this point but since we have we must either unite and spend more of our dollars on products and services that employ our families, friends and neighbors, or continue to face the reality that America went from a nation that manufactured everything to a nation that is largely dependent on foreign made products. The main question people want answered is question is WHY are such a large percentage of the products we use on a day to day basis made overseas and not in America?

I encourage you to visit our internet sites AmericanWorkersNeedYou.com and AmericanWorkersRadio.com which are our way to keep people informed and continue to expand the message that America needs more job opportunities for American workers.

Thanks for your participation and for spreading the word to others.
